

Rochester Rigging & Erectors, Inc.

Bristol Metals, Inc.

7819 State Route 5 and 20

Bloomfield, New York 14469

(585) 657-7665

(585) 657-6957 ~ fax

www.RochesterRigging.com

Company News:

We're into the year with a month behind us already; time flies! January was spent wrapping up some projects and reviewing what we did well in 2009 and what we didn't do well.

On the high note: Completion of Ambulatory Surgery Center, Unity (700 +ton), and ESL Bridge and Miscellaneous work. All of those projects were /are high profile and successful. All well received by LeChase. They of course are our contractor of choice and we will be diligently bidding their work this year. We hope for continued success going forward.

We successfully implemented "Shoptech". We had some stumbling along the way but all in all our hours are successfully logged for both our shop and field personnel and given some time we'll be gathering good history for estimating purposes! With the hope of course of sharpening our pencils to be able to get more work! We topped off our success with a Dinosaur BBQ lunch to congratulate everyone's hard work this Summer !

We continued to secure contracts with Wegmans in 2009, we hope to keep that relationship going into 2010! We started out the new year with a new contract; fabricating and installing a mezzanine at 1500 Brooks Avenue.

On another note we had some personnel changes this year. We added Kelly Ormsby which has been a very positive addition to the team. He will continue to work with the detailing team to get their standards in place with AISC and get StruCAD up and running full time. Our hopes are to work towards minimal errors and omissions. We've seen improvement in recent months and will keep striving for better practices and procedures. Other personal changes caused some hardship this year in detailing and project management but I think the company is in a better position going forward. We will continue to keep our team focused and on track. We realize we need to work well together to accomplish the great projects we have.

We are ready to begin our new implementation of AISC Fabricator certification. We'll begin working with a consultant to help us out in the near months. This process will guarantee much better fabrication parts and will aid us in our scheduling and overall quality. We really look forward to getting this done and in place in 2010!

Our website is getting redesigned now as we speak. It looks great and you'll be impressed with how professional the look and feel is. We hope to use our website to collect resumes, show off more of our projects and give a better portrayal of our company to our potential customers.

Stay tuned for more news in upcoming newsletters..... KELLY

Just a quick reminder that we are still collecting old cell phones that you may have lying around. Don't throw them in the land fill; donate them to Cell Phones for Soldiers! The organization started and is run by teenagers, collects old cell phones, donates them to a recycling company and they in turn get money to purchase phone cards for our soldiers overseas. It's all good.. Our box is fairly empty after our December donation.... Keep us in mind.